With channel bands of several hundred megahertz expected to support 5G deployments, government regulators will need to be creative in providing resources

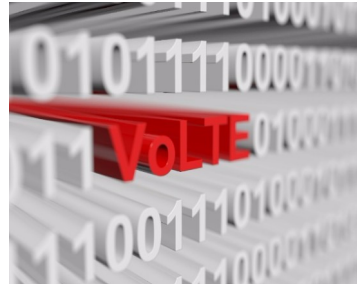

Spectrum remains one of the more challenging aspects on the road to “5G” deployments. With expectations of channel widths of hundreds of megahertz, government regulators are set to have their hands full in terms of freeing up the necessary resources to enable the 5G revolution. RCRWireless

By 2020 VoLTE (Voice over LTE) a $200 Billion opportunity

Latest research report “The VoLTE (Voice over LTE) Ecosystem: 2016 -2030: Opportunities, Challenges, Strategies & Forecasts” says that VoLTE service revenue will grow at a CAGR of 34% between 2016 and 2020. By the end of 2020, VoLTE subscribers will account for more than $200 Billion in revenue. Although traditional voice services will constitute a major proportion of this figure, nearly 15% of the revenue will be driven by video calling and supplementary services.
